講義概要・到達目標
Outline : Contrary to the common image of anthropology (e.g., studying the 'strange' social institutions and practices of 'exotic' peoples), an increasing number of studies in this domain have analyzed everyday interactions among ordinary people. One justification for this approach is that it provides an opportunity to study how persons and sociocultural worlds mutually constitute each other. It follows that "mind" and "culture", both of which are fundamental and important concepts in contemporary research about self and society, are not static entities but are part of a social reality that is deployed in moment-to-moment interactions. This perspective is derived from Linguistic Anthropology, which has developed as one of four field approaches to anthropology. Based on this perspective, this course aims to explore concepts of mind and culture. Thus, after introducing this increasingly popular domain of anthropology and its theoretical background, I will reconsider several spheres of social life in which mind and culture intersect (e.g., social cognition, understanding others, socialization and child development, language and communication, and emotion) based on a micro-analysis of everyday interactions in several societies in which I have conducted field research (e.g., Japan, the US, Botswana, and Namibia).

Goal :

In this course, we will develop the above areas of interest by analyzing selected domains of everyday life based on various ethnographic materials.
